

In light of the recent and continuing announcements regarding the Corona virus, we wanted to reach out to the clients, friends and family of Jones & Swanson. First and foremost, we are not simply closing our doors, and we are still available to answer your questions and provide guidance and advice as needed. During this unprecedented time, we are going to continue monitoring and following the recommendations of the CDC and other health officials.

At present, we are taking steps to dramatically reduce contact between our staff, our clients, and others we usually come into contact with on a daily basis. While we plan to have some presence in office each day, many of our staff will be working from home on a regular basis – some almost entirely. If you call the office, you will still be able to talk with one of our staff members. We do appreciate your patience and look forward to answering any questions you may have regarding your current case or potential case.
